

The CDC grant helped PWHP establish local health departments. Contaminants in partnerships to improve access to information in order to plan and prioritize actions on just suspect contaminants. PWHP established a partnership with SLPH that allowed the staff to gather test results from new wells tests water samples of new wells from most identify factors that influence private well user abilities to routinely test, treat, and maintain the quality of their drinking water.

PWHP staff are committed to continue enhancing services for private well users and increasing the resources available to them. In turn, staff hope to motivate private well users to maintain their wells and test their water. Established collaborations with academic institutions, county health departments, and other public health partners have contributed to improved private well services.